[Laughter and applause, and a voice: "November."] November. I ... that I should be prancing around ... a young man just out of his teens. [Renewed laughter and applause.] But now, gentlemen, let me be serious a little. You know, gentlemen of the Ohio delegation, that when you were kind enough to call on me before you went to St. Louis, ... knows it was honest, that I did not want the nomination, that what I wanted was peace and quiet, but that it was impossible for me to say that I would not refuse the nomination for that would make me a candidate at once and therefore, surrounded with these difficulties I could conceive of no other way, no other solution, than to place myself in your hands and I did so freely, honestly and fairly, loyally trusting that you would take care of my honor as well as the interests of the democratic party. [Cheers.] Now, gentlemen, I will undertake to speak for myself and say that you have done fairly and honorably and uprightly by me, and as long as I live I shall always bear toward you a grateful heart and pleasant recollection. [Applause.] Gentlemen, I thank you for your efforts; I thank you for what you have done, and whether I shall be successful or not, there is one thing of which I cannot be deprived, and that is the gratification of knowing that I have the good will of the people of my state; and not only of the people of Ohio out of the ... think, of the United States. [Cheers.] But I have another word to say before I stop, and that is this: There has scarcely ever happened in the history of this world a more sublime spectacle than the renomination of Grover Cleveland by the unanimous voice of the convention. [Great applause.] And now, I say, you did a wise thing in that, a patriotic thing in that the people of the United States love brave men, and Cleveland is a brave man. They love an honest man and God knows he is an honest man; they love a man of sound judgment, and I do not know any man of sounder judgment than his; they love a man who stands up for the people, who stands up for principle, and does not fear to take the consequence, and such a man is Grover Cleveland. Gentlemen, it will be an honor to every man of that St. Louis convention as long as he lives that he was there to cast his vote for this worthy president of the United States. Now I thank you, and will bid you good night. [Great applause.]

Governor Gray Satisfied.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 8.—Governor Gray received the news of Thurman's nomination with complacency. "I have had no other expectation for two days than that Thurman would be nominated for vice president," he said. "I have long thought that the man whom the New York delegation supported would be the nominee. I think I should have had no trouble had it not been for Thurman's candidacy. I think Thurman will carry the full strength of the party in this state. I want to say, with regard to my candidacy, that I feel prouder of the support I received at St. Louis and at home at the hands of the party than I would be of any honor the convention could confer upon me."

English Opinions.

LONDON, June 8.—The morning papers in referring to President Cleveland's nomination, say that it is all in the direction of free trade, and the comments are consequently congratulatory in tone.

The St. James Gazette says: "Democrats are extremely likely to have it all their own way at the next election. Republicans have neither man nor cause."

Pall Mall Gazette speaks, even of a third term as a matter of course, and says: "The point of contest about which we feel most interest in this country is the tariff question."

The Star says of the proceedings at St. Louis: "We may very well re-echo that enthusiasm on this side of the water, for the re-election of President Cleveland means the adoption of his plans for tariff revision and his ideas on that subject go a long way towards free trade."

Dorsey Denies Current Rumors.

DENVER, June 8.—Stephen W. Dorsey arrived in the city to-day, and his attention being called to telegrams in eastern papers in respect to his going to Chicago to knife everybody and the republican party, he said: "I have not the slightest intention of being at the convention, and there is not a candidate named that I would not be willing to support. I have not now and never had a grievance against anybody, and the story about my knifing Sherman or Gresham is pure rot. I am a republican from conviction, and am for whoever will most elevate freedom for everybody and everywhere. If Mr Cleveland represents that I am for him, but I don't think he does."

Republicans for Chicago.

DENVER, June 8.—The train bearing the delegates to the national convention at Chicago, together with members of the Union club, leaves here Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock over the Rio Grande to Pueblo, thence over the Missouri Pacific to Kansas City where the Chicago & Alton will receive the train and take it into Chicago. The train will arrive at Colorado Springs at 5:20 and Pueblo 7 p. m. Friday evening, where a number will join the delegation. The Burlington and Union Pacific will run out a special train from here on Friday night with quite a number of visitors to the Chicago convention.

Change on the Denver Times.

DENVER, June 8.—Mr. Griffith, the new proprietor of the Evening Times, will assume active management of the paper Monday morning. Mr. Frank Woodbury retiring. There will be a change in the editorial department. Mr Richard Linthicum, now on the Republican staff and formerly proprietor of the Como Headlight and a gentleman with extensive newspaper experience in Philadelphia and a number of cities in Colorado and New Mexico, will succeed Arthur Francis as managing editor of the paper. It is understood Major Ward now on the News staff and formerly editor of the Leadville Herald Democrat will assist Mr. Linthicum as editorial writer.

Sherman under the Weather.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Gen. W. T. Sherman has been confined to his room at the Fifth Avenue hotel for some days with rheumatism and asthma. He is some what improved to-night, and is anxious to have it understood that his illness is not serious.

SHERIDAN'S CONDITION.

The General Passes the Day Without Decided Change.

But the Outlook ... Less Encouraging.

The Organic Disease ... Not Yield to Treatment.

And the End is Believed to be not Far Off.

Sheridan's Illness.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—At 11 o'clock to-day it was stated that General Sheridan's mind had remained perfectly clear. He was resting quietly with little or no pain, and for the time being his condition is slightly improved. The organic disease from which he suffers, however, is making headway. He was more or less delirious all through the night, but not violently, but he could not recognize members of his family or his physicians, and refused to take any medicine or nourishment. About five o'clock this morning his mind cleared and he readily took peptonized milk. Each of the several attacks which he has had lately has left him much weaker than the previous one. His rallies are but partial and unsatisfactory, and altogether the case is a most desperate one. From information received from high sources it is believed that the end is not far off.

WASHINGTON, 1 p. m., June 8.—Gen... all the morning. The pulse is about 105, respiration 28 but varying, skin warm and moist. He coughs but little and his mind is clear.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—At 3 o'clock General Sheridan was resting easily and no change in his condition.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Dr. Pepper said to-night he could add nothing to the formation contained in the published bulletin of to-day, except to say that all of the intelligence from Washington indicated that Sheridan had a very good day. The fact of the bulletins being of a uniformly favorable tone, the doctor said, showed the improvement of this morning had been well maintained. Dr. Pepper will not go to Washington to-night, nor will he again visit there until notified by his colleagues in the case that his presence is necessary.

WASHINGTON, 8:30 p. m.—The afternoon has been a quiet one without incident worthy of mention. Sheridan's pulse is 101, respiration 35, temperature normal, mind perfectly clear. During the day he has shown great interest in current news.

Though there has been no very decided change for the worse in General Sheridan's condition during the day, yet the last twenty-four hours has not been encouraging for him. There has been a continuance of high respiration which marked decided congestion of the lungs, and difficulty in breathing weakened him and prevented him from securing much needed rest. Heretofore there has uniformly been improvement after an attack of heart failure, but now the patient does not seem able to rally.

Still Demanding Blaine.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, June 8.—Republicans of the Eighth congressional district held an enthusiastic meeting at Black's opera house last night. The meeting was addressed by William H. West who nominated Blaine in '84. He said the idea of the meeting was not to antagonize any of the distinguished gentlemen in connection with the Chicago convention, but merely to express the preference of the republicans of the district for a leader. He doubted not that all these men were qualified for the high office of president, but personal strength with the people in addition to qualification was demanded of the candidate this year. He said Blaine had been driven from the contest by the endorsement of Sherman at Toledo a year ago, and stated his belief that the Florence and Paris letters would never have been written had it not been for that endorsement. He expressed the belief that Blaine or Depew could poll 50,000 more votes in New York than any other candidate, and Ohio ought to be mindful of that fact. Resolutions were adopted pledging support to the Chicago nominee, but commended to the convention that "peerless statesman, James G. Blaine, whose name is linked with certain victory."

Spreckels on Sugar.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Claus Spreckels to-day in the course of a conversation regarding the sugar industry, when asked to give some information about refineries in and out of the trust, said: "There are four refineries in the sugar trust. They have already been enumerated. As to those out of the trust and their capacity, I can tell you something which may interest your readers. There is the California sugar refinery of San Francisco, with a daily capacity of 1,200,000 pounds, then there is Harrison & Frazier's, with about 650,000 pounds, E. C. Knight & Co. ... about 400,000 pounds a day. The new refinery here will produce 2,700,000 pounds a day, making 5,000,000 pounds or 25,000 tons a day produced by refiners out of the trust. The consumption of sugar is 1,320,000 tons a year. Refineries out of the trust, including the new refinery, will produce, provided the capacity of other refineries as ... is correct, 5,000,000 pounds a day or 750,000 tons a year. This leaves only 670,000 tons a year for refineries in the trust, or much less than one half. You see, therefore, that the four refineries of the trust have a greater capacity than twenty in the trust and have nothing to fear from them."

Polanders and their Priest.

DETROIT, Mich., June 8.—Two years and a half ago Father Kolasinski, pastor of the Polish Cathedral church of St. Albertu was accused of divers offenses and deposed by Bishop Borgess. A series of riots followed, in which some blood was shed; and the whole town was kept in a high state of excitement for many weeks. Kolasinski finally went to Dakota. He left behind him here between 5000 and 6000 adherents, who formed a kind of band and vowed not to rest con...

A Yachting Accident.

BALTIMORE, June 8.—Harrison Garrett, brother of Robert Garrett and manager of the ... of Robert Garrett & Sons of this city, drowned last night in the Patapsco river. His yacht Gleam in which he and a party of friends were coming to Baltimore from Annapolis was run down by the steamer Joppa and sunk, being struck amidships and almost cut in two. According to a ... on hands on the Gleam were rescued ... Garrett. When the Joppa struck the yacht, Garrett at once became greatly excited and sprang and grabbed the tow chain of the steamer and held on until it parted. Then he fell overboard. Although a good swimmer, he did not rise to the surface. The rest of the party were rescued by the crew of the Joppa and Gleam.

BALTIMORE, June 8.—Mrs. Garrett is completely prostrated by the news of her husband's death. The guests of Garrett were General R. Snowden Andrews, Geo. A. Von Lingen, German consul, Joshua G. Harvey, president of the Western National bank; and William H. Blackford, president of the Maryland Life Insurance company. The party left Baltimore yesterday morning for Annapolis to witness the exercises at the naval academy.

Taking Out the Phones.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—The Bell Telephone company threatens to quit business in St. Louis, owing to the recent ordinance passed reducing the annual rental of phones from $100 to $50. Already they have taken out many phones, and Commissioner Turner proposes to follow the letter and spirit of Mayor Francis' recent order to take down the wires and poles. The Bell Co., while assuring the public that they will go out of business, at the same time are preparing to resist removal of the wires and poles as they received the right to establish the service from the state and not the municipal government. They assert that they will not take advantage of any scheme to evade the law, though many subscribers whose contracts have expired are willing to pay the full rental demanded and will do it by donation or otherwise just so they can have the use of the wire.

A Frightful Accident.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., June 8.—A thrilling accident occurred at Brundage's Whirlpool park elevator on the Canadian side of the Niagara river this morning. Four South Americans, accompanied by an interpreter, stepped into a car to descend to the rapids, a descent of 300 feet at an angle of 45 degrees, when the car suddenly started and rushed to the bottom of the incline, where it was dashed into splinters and its occupants thrown with great force upon the platform. Before they could escape the other car reached the top with such force that it was detached and came down upon the shocked and bewildered victims of the first car with tremendous force. Mrs. Santana had a leg broken and was terribly shocked and bruised, and her daughter badly cut. The lady's husband and the interpreter fortunately escaped injury.

The Fire Record.

MONTREAL, June 8.—Fire broke out this morning in the stables of the Montreal Street Railway company, and before it was gotten under control the barn containing 135 horses, all except one of which perished, was destroyed. In the rear of the large stable was a small building containing eight horses, all of which were safely taken out. Seven firemen were badly burned in their humane work. The building was burned to ashes. A hospital was also destroyed. The loss will reach $100,000.

APPLETON, Wisconsin, June 8.—The Atlas Paper Mill Company, controlled by Kimberly, Clark Co., was totally destroyed by fire this morning. Loss $150,000; insurance, about $50,000.

German Lutherans.

MADISON, Wisconsin, June 8.—The triennial general conference of the German Lutheran church concluded last night after a session of eight days. The most important legislation enacted relates to the position of the church on secret organizations. Resolutions declaring strongly against such organizations were adopted and provisions made for the insertion of the same in the constitution of each church in the synod. It was decided to remove to Dubuque, Iowa, which city offered a bonus of thirty acres of land, two buildings and $7,000 in cash, the synodical theological seminary located at Mendota, Illinois provided the former city would increase its cash offer to $10,000. The session will be held biennially hereafter.

A Flood of Immigration.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Four steamships landed at Castle Garden to-day with 2721 immigrants. The commissioner of emigration received from Captain Winklin a list of passengers of the steamship California of the America Hamburg line, from Hamburg. He found that the vessel, which is not a large one, had brought over on her trip 1032 passengers. They were principally Polish, Hebrew and German farm hands. He also learned from the chief officer that ... left Hamburg there were detained in barracks in that city over 5000 German and Polish Hebrews awaiting transportation to this country and that small pox had broken out among them. The steamship's bill of health was good.

The Austrian Budget.

VIENNA, June 8.—The Neue Freie Presse says: The budget about to be submitted to the delegation shows an increased expenditure of five million florins, of which four and a half millions is absorbed by the war budget. Thirteen millions are asked for repeating rifles and four millions for army organization. The extraordinary special credit for the war department amounts to 47,250,000 florins, of which sixteen million florins have already been expended and 13,750,000 will be used for future requirements, the balance being reserved for urgent necessities.

Weather Indications.

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8, 10 p. m.—Indications for twenty four hours commencing 7 a. m., Saturday, June 9: For Colorado—Light to fresh northerly winds, becoming variable, warmer, light rains, followed by fair weather.

Sheridan is fighting his last battle, and from present appearances he will have to make his first surrender.

Mr. Thurman has grown young again since the St. Louis convention. The chilly air of November may cause a sudden advance in his years.

Cleveland will not win the national handicap this year with hands down if the republicans nominate the right man. In the latter event he will be distanced.

The cause of civil service reform attracted little notice in the democratic convention. Perhaps it was somewhat obscured under the folds of "a red bandana."

Up in Oregon they seem to be voting the republican ticket any way, even if the party is on the verge of disintegration, as one of the orators at St. Louis declared.

Mr. Patterson fears that the senate will be cursed with another Ingalls as its presiding officer. The solicitude exhibited by Mr. Patterson for the members of that august body, particularly at this time, is very unselfish. Some of his opponents, however, will accuse him of a longing for a senatorial seat, which even such a "curse" as Ingalls can not remove.

The influence of St. Louis stimulants upon the democratic host was something surprising. We are told that the convention went wild at the sight of a red bandana, and that pandemonium reigned when a little bird flew into the room. The weather would have been considerably cooler and the stimulants not quite so exhilarating if a piece of rope, strongly suggestive of a hangman's noose, could have been brought to the notice of the convention.

The nomination of Cleveland and Thurman suits both republicans and democrats, the former like it because the candidates stand on a platform opposed to protection, while the latter prefer it because they could not help themselves. Cleveland was nominated more from necessity than from choice. Mr Randall's views on the platform and the part which he will take in the approaching campaign will be awaited with interest. It is not unlikely that Mr. Randall will find a place to stand on the platform, but it will be a long distance from the Mills bill.

The folly of the democratic pretensions to popular support is fully shown by the record which the party has made during its four years' lease of power. The party pledged itself in 1884 to a revision of the tariff, but it has not been able to do anything in this direction, notwithstanding that the executive and a majority of the popular branch of congress are in favor of it. Civil service reform was all right in theory four years ago, but in its practical form it was a totally different thing. The Augean stables have not been thoroughly purified owing to the inferior work of Higgins, Gorman, Scott and other notable dispensers of public patronage. The record of the party is almost entirely a negative one. The party will be remembered for what it professed to do, and did not do. The country will demand an account of its stewardship, which it will puzzle some democratic statesmen to give.

The New York Evening Post is sensible of the fact that there is an element in the republican party strongly in favor of a revision of the tariff. It says:

Another surprise for the eastern republicans is the attitude of their brethren in the west regarding the tariff. While eastern leaders in congress like Reed and Kelley, and in the press like the New York Tribune and the Philadelphia Press, are trying to commit the party to protection for the sake of protection and to the maintenance of the present high tariff, western republicans of equal standing flatly declare that such a policy would be suicidal. Senator Davis of Minnesota recently said that the republicans of his state are in favor of a "speedy and extensive reduction of the tariff." Commenting upon the remark, the St. Paul Pioneer Press says: "There is nothing to be gained by trying to deceive ourselves about this matter. It is Mr. Blaine's antagonism to the deep-seated tariff-reform idea to which Senator Davis refers that has lost him his hold upon the republicans of the northwest. The Paris interview, much as it was applauded as a reply to the free trade message of the president, had more to do with taking him out of the field as a presidential candidate than his Florence letter." The truth is that the divergence between the republicans of the east and those of the west, alike on the question of candidates and on that of the platform, is about as wide as could well be imagined.

The English Grumbler—The Army and the Taxes.

[Copyrighted 1888.]
[WRITTEN FOR THE GAZETTE.]

With a tantalizingly romantic antique Medician name, in the early prime of middle manhood, round yet square, straightforward, sturdy, Italian as to complexion, but otherwise Yankee, with a power of imperturbable gaze; not impertinent, at persons, but as if fixed upon his own thought, a stranger would become idly curious to know what he was thinking of, and whether his face could light up, and what it really is to be an Italian citizen, if Italian citizen he were, though the great fur coat from which he had emerged might rather have warmed the Russian bear.

As indeed it had. So I learned—when patience had had its perfect work and I found myself next him at table on good terms ere the fish course had swam half way through the delicious sauce. An Italian citizen of a little abrupt, perhaps one should rather say of direct but most deferential, manners, fully up to the American standard of instinctive woman homage, judging the civilization of a nation by its bearing towards women behold my [illegible] Italian had been one of Garibaldi's men, a red hot radical hero, though his face had seemed too young and too fixed for such a past. And it could not only light up, but lightning up with fierce flash of southern fire, withering and consuming, and with the tricky, harmless heat lightning [illegible]

We skirmish along the outposts of the menu and the thick white or yellow sharp chill of the Italian fog, which could give points to the metallic brilliancy of a thirty-degrees-below-zero dry-air Minnesota morning, and presently find ourselves pell-mell in the Abyssinian fight.

"Italy does not fight for conquest. But she must avenge the massacre. She was on her own ground, and the savage Abyssinians came up and slew 500 of our soldiers."

"They were surprised?"

"To be sure. There was no war. There was no reason."

"You will end by taking Abyssinia?"

"No, we do not want it. But we want security and winter quarters for our men."

"And something for your men to do?"

"Ah! But you do not guess what."

"Tell me."

"You will recoil."

"Lay down their arms and cultivate the soil so that oranges shall not be 10 cents apiece?"

"And to that end a European war?"

"Oh, no."

"Oh, yes. We shall never disband except that way. All Europe is crowding and elbowing each other thrusting fists into each other's faces. Russia is a standing menace in the hands of a despot and a maniac. The czar gets up in the morning, crazy, cross, dyspeptic, with a cold in his head, and shouts 'March that army over the Austrian frontier!' If he would sneeze twice he would be better, but meanwhile the telegraphs are ticking agitation and alarm over the world. Let us fight it out and have things settled and give the people peace."

"Is Italy against Russia if there should be a war?"

"No. Russia will soon be set in Italy's direction. I will give her ten years. I say in ten years there will be a revolution in Russia. The Romanoffs will be turned out. They are bad. They are crazy and vicious. The Prince of Wales is a saint compared to the czar. I have seen the prisoners in the mines. No one with a heart can be in Russia and not sympathize with the nihilists. It is not the same as in your country. The ten years may not be exact. I will not swear. But the eighteenth century closed with the French revolution and the nineteenth will close with a revolution in the north."

"Italy and France would stand together I suppose?"

"Not surely. There are jealousies. If a man does you a favor you do not like to have him say always, 'I did you a favor,' especially if you paid for it at the time."

"Is not Napoleon the man to conjure by in Italy?"

"No! He did no good. We do not admire him."

"Yet he was Italian, too."

"No, he was wholly French."

"And Louis Napoleon?" I queried hesitatingly.

"Neither of them," he said, with a scornful toss of the head and wave of the hand as one would fling from him some worthless rubbish. "And there stands Napoleon the Great, wrought by Canova, on the cathedral's top among the saints and angels and Maria Sanctissima; but his own hand put him aloft. And there stands the beautiful triumphal arch wherein he records in carved marble and spirited bronze the completion of the Simplon route. I remember, too, where the nephew of his uncle is hidden away in a courtyard of the old Palazzo del Senato because when he was all aglow in his bronze bravery the indignant city would none of him. So instead of prancing proudly on his war horse in the broad square the cynosure of admiring throngs he [illegible] stone [illegible] elsewhere in stony indifference and the curious eyes of roving Americans scan him only to read the story of [illegible] failure. So fare to ill fame all, both great and small, and would build their own renown on the ruin of human happiness."

"Are the people," I asked him, "really better off under the king, as united Italy than they were as separate states?"

"Yes, although they grumble. You cannot always find them saying they are better off. They forget. In the olden time they had meat once a week. Now they have meat once a day, and they sigh for the good old times and the [illegible] remember their rare morsels."

Here spake the Englishman—a typical Englishman, I suspect, at least in some respects. First, aggressively clean, dauntly spotless among foreigners who Englishman with [illegible] if somewhat scanty, hair, polite even to the point of beneficence, so palpably and horribly bored by himself as to take away the least little from the Potency of his kind attention; gently and [illegible] [illegible] proud of his [illegible] London house, his country seat, modestly but inexpressibly proud, after a fashion that augurs well for England, of his subordinate official station in his native land—evidently believing, as Villari says the Florentines believed, "that the greatest felicity which man can hope to find on earth is to have a share in the government of his country"—a tory and [illegible] instinctively, as an Englishman untroubled by poverty, or thought or imagination may be.

But when the Italian talked of grumbling, he touched the English chord, and the English grumble responded, albeit it was a polite and good-natured grumble.

"But the tax payers do not forget. I cannot live through an English winter, and where I paid eight francs in taxes under the good duke I pay 999 under the king."

"You mean 800 francs, not 8," I suggested.

"Not at all. I mean just 8 francs—and now I pay 900 francs."

"You, then, have prospered under the new order of things," said the Italian, dryly.

"It is not the 900 francs that surprise me now, but the 8 of yesterday. How could any government be supported on 8 francs!"

"Why, Florence," said the Englishman, not hearing or not heeding the Italian's "little dig," "where I live for some part of [illegible] When she gave up her independence she turned over twenty-nine millions of money to united Italy."

"For what?"

"Heaven only knows. Nothing is so mad as people. They had the gentlest possible life in Tuscany. The rule of the Grand Duke was lenity itself. Having was cheap. It was the purpose of the Grand Duke to make it so. More scholars, artists, came to Florence to study than to all the rest of Italy—from all quarters of the world. Yet the people revolted."

"And the English are incomprehensible," said the Italian with smiling sarcasm.

"And, really, how are the Italians convenienced?" questioned the Englishman, not to be deflected from his seriousness. "I would not begrudge my 900 francs; but Florence used to support 5,000 soldiers; now, as United Italy, she pays for 50,000. 50,000 men who add nothing whatever to the productive power of the country; who, economically speaking, live without work; who, practically, are supported by the mechanics, the artisans, the peasants; whose whole business is to destroy, not to increase, value. You see it is not my ducats, but my daughter."

"United Italy means ultimately to save both your ducats and your daughter by abolishing the standing army."

Abolish the standing army! Sweep away that ever-present enlivener of streets and squares and sidewalks! The heavy batteries rumble and rattle, not to be compared with our own volunteer batteries for imposingness, but still making a noisy procession to delight the hearts of urchins. We cannot say Browningesquely—"Bang! whang! whang! goes the drum, tootle-te-tootle! the fife;" for I observe that though on pleasure they are bent, they have a frugal mind, and the band, all except the leader, plays with trumpet only in one hand, but with firearms in the other, so that they can not only stir up the heart of their comrades to fight, but have themselves one arm and a musket to fight with—which is praiseworthy economy. But march and music are there—march of cavalry and lilt of long rows of infantry; officers glittering in the sunshine and brightening even the gloom of the darkest and narrowest streets; the handsomest men in Italy, or of Europe thus far seen, with the eagles of Cæsar evoluted into these bright brass helmets; and I question if the rents that envious Casca made disturbed more voluminous or more numerous folds than those which fall in these long blue cloaks depending from the right shoulder and thrown over the left in true Tito fashion. Abolish the standing army and the last formal vestige of picturesqueness in costume! But the support of the standing army is a horse of another color, and we are fallen on modern days.

It is expected to accommodate over 800 performers.

A Train Attacked.

CINCINNATI, June 9.—At [illegible] to-night American Express Messenger [illegible] H. Zimmerman and Baggageman [illegible] Ketcham were alone together in the express and baggage car of the [illegible] Indianapolis & Chicago [illegible] which is due here at [illegible] [illegible] train was [illegible] [illegible] miles west of [illegible] attention to men supposed to be tramps [illegible] saw through the glass window of the [illegible] door leading to the front platform next to the locomotive tender. Both then arose and went toward the front door. When within [illegible] feet of it the tramps began firing through the glass windows. Ketcham fell shot in four places, two balls entering the abdomen, one in the breast and one in his left shoulder. Zimmerman tried to draw a pistol, but it stuck in his pocket and he retreated to the rear platform of the car where he met the conductor. The latter pulled the bell rope and stopped the train. While this was going on one of the tramps climbed on the tender, which he was up the the engineer and fireman and knocked [illegible]

MEN'S SONS.

THE OFFSPRING OF STATESMEN, [illegible]

[illegible] Who They Are and [illegible] Making Money in Cattle.

[Correspondence.]

[illegible] Jr., recently had a fuss [illegible] miners, but it was shown [illegible] the wrong, and I am told [illegible] in Ohio, under Thurman [illegible] ator Voorhees has a son in [illegible] Bayard's son is surveyor [illegible] a territory, and Senator [illegible] secretary to his father, [illegible] dent of the United States [illegible] as well and ill, and they [illegible] different from the sons of [illegible] son is named Ellsworth, [illegible] honest, intelligent young [illegible] the same character as [illegible] an efficient secretary, [W]ashington.

[illegible] in northwestern lands, [illegible] in Wyoming terri[tory] [illegible] has two sons who [illegible] as lawyers in Wichita, [illegible] Jones, of Florida, has a [st]raight as the father is [illegible] went to Detroit to keep [illegible]

[illegible] Logan, he is a fine look[ing] young fellow, with eyes as [illegible] of his father, and with a [illegible] of jet. He was rather [illegible] but he has straightened [illegible] Chauncey Andrews' [illegible]

[illegible] Hanson's sons is kept busy [illegible]

[illegible] ger has a son who gets $6 [illegible] the committee on manu[factures] [illegible] rule, our statesmen who [illegible] get a little Washing[ton] [illegible] of the government. [illegible] Bayard, he was in New [illegible] He is full of Amer[ica] [illegible] will be one of the best [illegible] for him to get him out of [illegible] blood will count for [illegible] of the west, and I [illegible] promise to make his [illegible] a civil engineer. He was [illegible] Cleve[land] and that Bayard himself [illegible] with it. The blood of a [illegible] however, flows in his veins, [illegible] he will come back from [illegible] or senator when it [illegible]

[illegible] ger's son was for a long [illegible] Washington, and this is [illegible] Senator George had [illegible] for a long time. Senator [illegible] but I am not sure that [illegible] position, and Lamar [illegible] of the interior, had [illegible] under him. [illegible] a son at Washington, [illegible] a year or so ago [illegible] of a pretty so[illegible] her to dance with him [illegible] the seductive Washington [illegible] society ladies [illegible] all too [illegible] but it calls attention [illegible] Holman was working [illegible] depot tickets, and [illegible] that the son of Sena[tor] [illegible] at one of the Washi[ngton] [illegible]

[illegible] bing for a senator's son to [illegible] Washington. This is [illegible] or is not level headed and [illegible] As the possessor of influ[ence] [illegible] he is toadied to to an ex[tent] [illegible] the entree to the society [illegible] all the dissipations of [illegible] open to him.—If he [illegible] and character he will [illegible] of the siren and keep his [illegible] the case with the sons of [illegible] be weak in brain or will, [illegible] he falls like Lucifer.—

[illegible] fingers of one hand the [illegible] whose fathers have been [illegible] of our past, but all my [illegible] not number the great [illegible] gone wrong.

[illegible] that many of our great [illegible] Washington, Jack[son] [illegible] and Buchanan had no [illegible] boys were girls [illegible] bright son, but he was [illegible] a great father, and he [illegible] more than was good for [illegible]

[illegible] today, and where [illegible] prominent [illegible] a bright son, but he [illegible] war, and another [illegible] was not long ago [illegible] brawl in Kentucky. [illegible] Breckinridge, died a bache[lor].

[illegible] was a man of ability, but [illegible] neither as statesman nor as [illegible] Johnson's sons are [illegible] and Aaron Burr's [illegible] Theodosia died. Alex[ander] [illegible] a bachelor, and [illegible] had no children.

[illegible] of Georgia, has two [illegible] bright young fellows. [illegible] railroad president, and is a [illegible] aesthetic tastes. Senator [illegible] Senator Payne's son, [illegible] the richest men in the [illegible] is worth $20,000,000, and [illegible] of it out of oil. Justice [illegible] has a boy who is one [illegible] Presbyterian preachers of [illegible] Senator Harrison has a son [illegible] of the Montana Cattle [illegible] and who is making a [illegible] as a cowboy in the wes[t].

[Senat]or Dawes, of Massachu[setts] [illegible] Chicago and a good one [illegible] is practicing law there, [illegible] has made money and is [illegible] Senator [illegible] children, and Senators Haw[ley] [illegible] Sanderson are childless. [illegible] son died in Europe several [illegible] was his death that [illegible] Stanford to build the $15,- [illegible] which he is putting up in [illegible] Spooner has children, [illegible] all to prophesy anything [illegible] as yet. Senator Evarts [illegible] and one of them is [illegible] has eleven children, [illegible] for them than he does for [illegible] senate. Senator Gorman [illegible] his own children. If Tom [illegible] they never get to Wash[ington] [illegible] Cameron nor Cullom [illegible] George Hearst, [illegible] California senator, has a [illegible] editor of The San Fran[cisco] [illegible] who is making, by the [illegible] of it. Senator [illegible] York, has sons who are [illegible] doing well.

[illegible] are as a rule well [illegible] and [illegible] enough sense to make [illegible] way, they are liable to [illegible] they came of other than [illegible]

[illegible] children, and I don't [illegible] United States who would [illegible] Judge W. D. Kelley [illegible] the success of his son in [illegible] the new iron dis[illegible] and has been engaged [illegible] He has been making [illegible] proud of him. Sam [illegible] little son here who [illegible] looks like his father. [illegible] Sam Randall," and is [illegible] as sharp as a tack. [illegible] who succeeded Gar[land] [illegible] a son who is practicing [illegible] as for the sons of [illegible] in the house of [illegible] R. Breckinridge, of [illegible] the noted John C. [Breckinridge, of K]entucky. [illegible] Fair has a [illegible]

[con]siderable remark in Washington, though he is not here now. He was a little wild at times, and his father, it is said, offered him $1,000,000 to quit drinking. This is rather a big story, but young Fair concluded that he did not want the million dollars, and it is said that he still occasionally tipples. I suppose he thought he would get the money anyhow.

[illegible] a bright little boy who is named after him, and who, as "Little Phil," is one of the most popular children of the capital. Henry A. Wise, the noted statesman of the past, has a bright representative now in the person of his son, John S. Wise, of Virginia, and there is a Breckinridge in California who has made a good record, and who is the brother of the son of John C. Breckinridge spoken of above.

Secretary Whitney has a son at college, and from all accounts he is a very bright boy. Gen. Sherman's son Tom is a Catholic priest in Detroit, and Chester A. Arthur has a son Allen, who dropped out of view when his father retired from public life. Senator Blaine's son, who was married a year or so ago, has had a rather checkered career since he married, and I understand that President Hayes' sons are doing well, and that one of them is practicing law at Toledo. The son of Oliver P. Morton has made quite a reputation as a lawyer in Indianapolis, and is now publishing a biography of his father, and I understand that one of the sons of Secretary Stanton is editing his father's papers.

Looking from statesmen to rich men, the [illegible] Gould is a chip of the old block, it seems, in every respect, and is as full of business as his father. The Vanderbilt boys are doing remarkably well, and they seem to hold their own in money matters. The Astors have been blessed with good children through generations, [illegible] family of real estate owners in New York city. Robert Garrett is the son of a rich man, and it is hard to say whether he is a good speculator or not. Phil Armour has taken his son into business with him, and it is said that when he did so placed a million dollars to the credit of the young man and gave him his full confidence. He has been treated in this way by his father, and when Phil Armour was a boy, if he wanted any money, he was told by his father, "You know where the [illegible] go and help yourself. He thus became interested in his father's property, and was as careful of spending it as though it was his own. Phil Armour believes that this is the right way to train up boys, and it is said that he manages his family affairs on this same basis of self interest.

THOMAS J. TODD.

I. O. O. F. Lodge at Colorado City.

Some time ago a number of the Odd Fellows at Colorado City [illegible] to organize a lodge at that place. The ceremony of instituting the lodge took place last evening in the hall of Pike's Peak lodge No. 38 of this city. The name of the lodge will be Colorado City lodge No. 77, I. O. O. F., and the character of its members is a sufficient guarantee that its good work of visiting the sick and relieving the distressed will be carefully administered. The task of instituting the lodge was delegated to H. C. McCreery, Esq., of this city by Grand Master Joseph Mann, who was ably assisted Dr. T. G. Horn as grand warden; A. H. White, as grand secretary; S. Baker as grand marshal, and J. M. Bolton as grand treasurer. At the close of the instituting ceremonies the following officers were chosen to guide the new organization on its voyage of good works: J. H. Mathers, N. G.; Charles Kelley, V. G.; Lee Watkins, secretary; Edward Minium, treasurer. A number of applicants applied for membership who were duly elected, and with the assistance of members of Pike's Peak lodge were initiated into the mysteries of the order. Colorado City Lodge No. 77 starts out with earnest workers to occupy its field of labor, and will undoubtedly be the means of doing much good in our neighboring city.

The base ball game to-day will be a hard fight no doubt, but the home team with Lynch as captain and second baseman, is being freely backed to win the game. The Racquets will have Castone, Willoughby, Garbosky, Masconi, Straub and, in fact, all the first-class men they can get together. In other words Denver will do all that can be done to beat Colorado Springs, and we trust this time she will be unsuccessful. Our team is in much better practice than usual and it means to win if possible. The list of the Racquet team, in full, has not yet been received. Our team will play as follows:

W. McMahon	Catcher
Ferguson	Pitcher
Fitzgerald	First base
Lynch	Second base
Smith	Third base
DeWitt	Short stop
F. McMahon	Left field
Hunter or Talcott	Center field
Goldani	Right field

The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp.

A Card.

Having disposed of the stock of the late L. C. Davis' jewelry establishment to Mr. L. G. Goodspeed I cordially solicit for him a continuance of the same generous patronage which has been given the late proprietor and manager of the store. Respectfully,

G. W. DAVIS.

Administrator of the Estate of L. C. Davis.

The Fourth of July athletic sports are getting to be talked about considerably, and a number of entries are already in. Mr Lyle, who will be here to defend himself, will find that he will have to work in order to carry off three prizes as he did in the last meeting. He will have Goddard against him in the 220 yards, which Lyle calls his best distance. Bean and Joe Parsons will worry him in the quarter, and the whole town will be against him in the 100 yards. Two events which will be very interesting have been added to the list, viz: throwing base ball and running around bases. In each of these events a "wagon-tongue" bat will be the prize. There will also be an open "free-for-all" bicycle race in which several Denver cracks will appear. And Kennedy, of Denver, will give an exhibition of expert bicycle riding. Besides the above mentioned events there will be some eight others. The full list will be published in a few days. The prizes except as above mentioned will be handsome and valuable cups, which have already been ordered and on their arrival will be on exhibition at the Consolidated book store.

Dr. C. G. Lamb of Denver, the state veterinarian, pursuant to advices received from Sheriff Jackson visited the city yesterday for the purpose of looking at the horse in one of the pastures near the city which was affected with the glanders. He found the animal in the worst stages of the disease and immediately gave orders to have it killed. The horse had only been in the pasture a few days and it is not thought that the other animals in the enclosure are affected with the dread disease.

PINAFORE.

A Successful Performance at the Opera House Last Evening.

Pinafore will never cease [illegible] catching melodies, bright [illegible] the vein of [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

The efforts of the soloists were all directed towards making the presentation of the opera a success and there was no striving for individual distinction or recognition. Each of the soloists made a favorable impression and the audience [illegible] applause in a very impartial and liberal manner.

The chorus work was first class in every respect, and gave ample evidence [illegible] received. The dancing of the male chorus in the first act received a well earned encore.

It would be invidious to criticise the work of any of the soloists, except in the most favorable terms, but that of Norman Campbell as Dick Dead eye is deserving of more than passing notice. His make-up was excellent, and his facial expressions on more than one occasion brought down the house.

The success of the entertainment is another tribute to the ability of Professor W. Mason Broad as a musical director, which has been amply demonstrated on previous occasions in this city. Taken as a whole nothing but praise can be said concerning the entertainment. There will be a matinee this afternoon. The doors will open at half past one o'clock, and the performance will begin an hour later. The following is the cast of characters:

The Right Hon. Sir Joseph Porter	L. [illegible] Monroe
Capt. Corcoran	H. H. Wolbert
Ralph Rackstraw	M. O. Barnes
Dick Deadeye	N. M. Campbell
Boatswain	Fred E. Horn
Boatswain's Mate	R. S. Brownlie
Josephine	Miss Irene Barnes
Hebe	Miss Nellie Vaux
Little Buttercup	Miss Maggie Irving

Damon and Pythias.

Boston Traveller.

Frederick Warde achieved a triumph at the Hollis Street theatre last evening. Damon and Pythias [illegible] those who helped to make the affair [illegible] Knights of Pythias, representing all the Boston lodges of that famous order. Warde is himself a Knight of high degree, and his brother knights attended the performance last evening with the determination of giving him such a reception as he never received before. In this they certainly succeeded, and it has been many a night since the walls of the Hollis street reverberated with such thunders of applause. After each act the curtain was raised again, and once it had to be pulled up four times before the enthusiasm of the audience was at all allayed. Beautiful floral tributes were sent over the footlights to the young star. One was a knight's helmet of white and purple immortelles, and the other a great shield, symbolic of the order, composed of raised colored flowers, and bearing the initials of the order's motto, "Charity, Friendship and Brotherly Love."

At the end of the fourth act, after the curtain had been rung up again and again, Mr. Warde was introduced to make a speech, in the course of which he was repeatedly interrupted with roars of applause. He said he did not know how a Boston audience was in the habit of receiving an actor whom it wished to honor, but he could scarcely believe that any one had received a greater ovation than had been tendered him. Continuing, he said that only two or three days ago I crossed your threshold with trembling feet and beating heart little dreaming of the reception I was to receive. Never in any city of the United States have I received such a cordial welcome. I know not how to find words that shall fitly express my thanks. But I can promise that all my efforts shall be devoted to one object, and that is to be worthy of your appreciation.

Resolutions of Respect.

Puttkamer Resigns.

BERLIN, June 8.—The Post and National Zeitung state that Von Puttkamer has resigned from the ministry.

LONDON, June 8.—The Berlin correspondent of the St. James Gazette telegraphs that Herr Von Puttkamer, vice president of the Prussian ministerial council and Prussian minister of the interior, has asked the emperor for permission to resign, owing to the contents of an autograph letter from the emperor which he received last night.

Bills in Committee.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The house committee on commerce has authorized favorable reports on the following bills: Appropriating $25,000 for a lighthouse at San Diego, conferring on the president of the United States the right to appoint medical officers of the marine hospital service, and the Nelson bill conferring upon state and territorial legislatures the right to control the tolls, rates and fares within the limits of their respective states or territories of all railroad companies chartered by congress.

Strike of Bakers.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—Journeymen bakers are very indignant at the treatment they received at the hands of the Bakers' Protective association, who refused to recognize the union or sign any contract whatever. The result of this is that the union called out the bakers, and there are about 200 bakers on a strike. Nearly all the bakers whose men have gone out have succeeded in getting new men. They say they will not reinstate the old men.

Fiftieth Congress.

HOUSE.

Dingley of Maine from the committee on merchant marine and fisheries, reported back the resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury for information as to whether any order is now in force by which vessels from United States ports are required to pay less tolls in passing the Welland and other Canadian canals when they pursue their voyage by way of the St. Lawrence and Montreal than when they pursue their voyage by way of Lake Ontario to American ports and whether additional legislation is necessary to authorize the secretary of the treasury to impose additional tolls upon vessels passing through the Sault Ste. Marie and St. Clair Flats canal bound to Canadian ports in case Dominion authorities continue discriminating against vessels bound to American ports. Adopted.

The tariff bill was then taken up in committee of the whole, the salt paragraph being under consideration. After an extended debate participated in by a large number of the house, a vote was taken and a motion was made by Burrows to strike out the paragraph, and it was rejected.

An amendment offered by Grosvenor,

[illegible] of the [illegible] bulk, salt from the free list, admitting only dairy and table salt, met with a similar fate.

This concluded consideration of the salt paragraph.

By a notice in another column it will be seen that the stock of Davis' jewelry establishment has been purchased by Mr. L. G. Goodspeed, of Chicago, who is now in possession of the store. Mr. Goodspeed has been in the jewelry business for nineteen years, and possesses the practical knowledge necessary to conduct the business in a satisfactory and successful way. He will bring his family to this city and will make it his permanent home. Mr. Goodspeed has already purchased a large stock of entirely new goods, which he will place in the store, and will aim in every way possible to satisfy the demands of the local trade.

Mr. J. B. Carnes and Mr. G. W. Smith, of Trenton, Missouri, have arrived in the city with their families and will remain some time. Mr. N. Shanklin is expected to arrive from Trenton, Missouri. These gentlemen are the owners of some extensive coal lands east of the city, including the McFerran banks. Their visit is for the purpose of viewing their property and to decide upon the character of the machinery which they will require to work it successfully. They intend to do some extensive mining during the fall and winter, and will have one of the largest and most complete coal plants in the state.

Mrs. Annie Swartwood, who has resided for several weeks in the southern part of the city, was taken into custody yesterday on complaint of her husband who charged her with being insane. Yesterday morning a jury consisting of C. R. Husted, F. B. Wells, E. Howbert, Otis Remick, Z. B. Pierce and G. R. Fowler was impanelled in the county court to pass upon her sanity. After listening to the testimony of her husband and two physicians which showed that [illegible] the jury returned a verdict to that effect. The woman will be taken to the insane asylum at Pueblo as soon as accommodations can be secured for her in the female department.

Special Attention Given to the Collection of Rents, Interest, etc., and the care of Property of Persons out of Town.

Insurance Carefully Written in First-Class Companies Only.

Losses Promptly and Satisfactorily Adjusted.

STRANGERS, and others not posted in our Real Estate Market, often ask the question, "Where can I best invest my money to be sure of Quick and Profitable returns?"

1st. I would say, select a locality where you have the most SUNSHINE, the finest view of our GRAND MOUNTAIN SCENERY, etc.

2nd. See that you locate where you can enjoy the best WATER ADVANTAGES that our city affords. A home without water in this country is a desert, and when I say "BEST WATER ADVANTAGES" I mean not only for irrigating purposes, which is very important, but also for all DOMESTIC PURPOSES. Our water supply at present is limited, and unless greatly increased the time is near at hand, if not already here, when every drop will be needed inside present city limits.

3rd. Do not locate where lots are too low in price—Low priced LOTS bring low priced HOUSES, and a PALACE surrounded by shanties will never sell for half its value. Better economize in other ways and secure a lot that will increase in value.

4th. Dont wait until the "Rock Island" comes in and then pay 25 per cent more than present rates.

5th. "Lastly," call and see us and we will convince you that "BOULDER HEIGHTS" possesses all the above advantages.

SOMETHING NEW.

Having just received one of the Largest consignments of WALL PAPER that was ever brought to El Paso county, at one time and in order to dispose of it quick and to give our patrons a share of the profits we have concluded to give three grand prizes that shall be a benefit to every property holder in the county. To every purchaser of six double rolls of Paper and over and border for the same amount of paper we shall give a chance in a GRAND DRAWING for the papering of three parlors in three different ways the size of the parlor not to exceed 16x18.

THE FIRST PRIZE—Shall be for papering ceiling and walls with the very best hand made Embossed Paper in our store, the lucky party to select the paper. The wood work to be painted or stained to match the paper.

SECOND PRIZE—The ceiling and walls to be papered with Colored Bronze Paper, wood work painted or stained to match.

THIRD PRIZE—The ceiling and walls papered with a flat paper that is, a paper without gilt, wood work painted or stained to match.

The mode of drawing will be by tickets, with name and number put in a box, which will be soldered up and a duplicate of the same given the purchaser. The box will not be opened until the 31st day of July, 1888. Then all tickets shall be placed in a revolving wheel and a disinterested party blind-folded shall draw out one ticket, which shall indicate the owner of the first prize. The second and third in the same manner than there is drawn.
